"The Hugnenote" by the Richings Troupe. The performance of Meyerbeer's opera of The Huguenots last evening by the Richings troupe, for the benefit of Mr. Behrens, was a very decided success, notwithstanding the important fact that most of the singers were not equal to the task of rendering the difficult music in the most perfect manner. Fair results were achieved, however, by good discipline and by the evident determination of each of the artists to do his or her best. The most palpable deficiency was in the numerical strength of the chorus. In all of Meyerbeer's operas there are grand scenes that require a crowd of personages on the stage, and it is impossible to produce some of his most striking effects with the limited number of supernumeraries that are commonly introduced. It is scarcely to be expected, however, that a single performance of an opera of this kind by a travel. ling troupe will be given with all the accessories of the Grand Opera House at Paris, and as the choruses were for the most part sung in really good style, it is a more gracious task to dwell upon the undoubted merits of the performance than upon its obvious and to a certain extent unavoidable defects.

Whatever comparisons may be made between Mrs. Bernard and other singers, she is without doubt the very finest lyric actress now before the American public. Whatever she undertakes is done intelligently and in a genuine artistic spirit, but in some of the higher roles of the lyric drama she displays a tragic power that a very few years ago her warmest admirers did not credit her with possessing. The part of "Valentine," which she sustained last evening, is one that demands both power and delicacy. Meyerbeer is not only a master of bold and striking stage effects, but in all of his operas, and especially in the music allotted to his heroines, there is much fine shading that any but a singer of decided ability will fail to interpret adequately. Mrs. Bernard is one of the few artists who have attempted the vole of "Valentine" in this city who appears to 'ully appreciate this characteristic of Meyerpeer's music, and her performance last evening was entirely worthy of the cordial applause bestowed upon it. In the scene with "Raoul," in the fourth act, and in the great scene of the last act, her abilities as an actress and as a singer were displayed to the best advantage, and had the opera been even less creditably presented in other respects, it would still have been well worth witnessing merely for the sake of Mrs. Bernard's personation of the heroine. Mr. Drayton, who is the only member of the troupe that equals Mrs. Bernard in ability, had a congenial role in that of "Marcel." the Huguenot soldier. Mr. Drayton, when he appeared here at the beginning of the season, made his mark as an artist of first-rate ability, and the splendid manner in which he represented the stern old fanatic last evening more than ever confirmed him in the regards of the public.

Mrs. Bowler, who appeared as "Urbain," the page, gave a very satisfactory performance, and, taking the limitations of her role into consideration, she fairly divided the honors of the evening with Mrs. Bernard and Mr. Drayton.

The part of "Sir Raoul" was beyond the powers of Mr. Bowler, as it was evidently out of the line of his sympathies. He is entitled to credit, however, for a careful and conscientious effort, and the same may be said of Mr. Henry C. Peakes, who appeared as "St. Bris." Mrs. Drayton, who was a favorite here some years age when she appeared with her husband in parlor operas, has not sufficient voice for such a building as the Academy of Music, and she did not make any very decided impression as "Marguerite de Valois," and Mr. Bernard, who occasionally sings an air with taste and experience. but who is not remarkable otherwise, was so totally out of place as "Count de Nevers" that his performance scarcely need be criticized.

The orchestra was largely increased, and under the able leadership of Mr. Behrens it did its part in a manner worthy of favorable meution.

The City Amusements. AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC The Bohemian Girl will be performed this evening for the benefit of Mr. A. S. Pennoyer. This occasion will be made interesting by the appearance of Miss Emma Howson in the role of "Arline." Mr. Pennoyer has been connected with the Richings troupe as business manager ever since its establishment, and as he is now about to retire we hope that his friends will endeavor to make his last benefit a success.

To-morrow evening Mr. Henry Drayton will have a benefit, when The Huguenots will be re-

On Friday Mrs. Bernard will be the recipient of a complimentary testimonial tendered her by the directors of the Academy of Music. Wal-lace's opera of Lurline will be given for the first time in this city, and, in view of Mrs. Bernard's labors for the establishment of English opera and her personal merits as an artist, her friends in Philadelphia should aid in making her benefit a substantial testimonial of their

THERE is no doubt that Rockhill & Wilson do the largest clothing business of any clothing house in the Their stock of clothing to-lay amounts to five hundred thousand dollars. The capacity of their store is ample to accommodate their customers by the thousands, On Saturday last might be seen over one hundred customers making purchases at one time on the first floor, while their upper rooms were crowded with gentleme and ladies, leaving their measures for the little boys and their fathers. It is impossible for us to refer to any particular houses to prove the amount of our purchases, a we are not confined to any particular house, but make them where we can buy the cheapest. PILES CAN BE CURED

DR. GALLAGHER'S CELEBRATED VEGETABLE PILE CURE

Is a quick, safe, sure, and effectual Remedy for BLEED-ING, BLIND, OR ITOHING PILES, PRO-LAPSUS ANI OR FALLING OF THE RECTUM, CONSTIPATION OF THE BOWELS, ETC.

The application and use of this remedy, as well as its effects, are quite different from all others heretofore prescribed for the above-named diseases. Its principal virtues are derived from its internal use, regulating the Liver and Kidneys, and imparting health and vigor to the whole alimentary canal. It is specific in its action, completely controlling the circulation blood in the hemorrhol vessels.

CAUSES OF THE DISEASE.

The causes of these complaints are numerous, and are undoubtedly in many instances hereditary ; but a sedentary and studious habit, luxurious living, highseasoned and stimulating food, the intemperate use of spirituous drinks, the very free use of strong coffee and tea, mental depression, sorrow, and grief; in short, whatever tends to weaken the digestive organs may be considered the most active general causes.

The afflicted can rely with the utmost confidence in this medicine, because the great success that it has met with since its introduction is a sure indication of its real value. For inward and outward applications, if used as directed, it cannot fail to give the fullest satisfaction.

THE LATEST NEWS.

FROM NEW YORK.

Terrible Disaster at Sea-Loss of the Daclan and Fifty-seven Lives. NEW YORK, June 8 .- The Mail prints a telegram from London announcing the loss of the steamship Dacian, between Bermuda and Panama, whereby fifty-seven lives were lost; three only were saved.

Mr. Summer defended the committee from the assault which he said had been made upon it. He said the case was one of an American citizen sweltering in a tropical prison to carry out the machinations of an American citizen the public reports in connection with this subject demanded attention.

Mr. Scott said if information of the conduct of the agents of the President of the United States was needed some other means of obtaining it should be resorted to. If the Senate required further light for its guidance in ratification of the treast it might obtain it more readily than by this indirect way of assailing the President. He could not agree to that part of she resolution authorizing the sending for persons and papers, because under it the Sorgeant-at-arms might be sent to San Domingo for witnesses, when it might be entirely useless to send anything less than a competent naval force for the purpose.

Mr. Tipton took the position that when an investigation like that proposed was asked for by a fellow Senator, he considered it his duty not to cavil as to where examination should be made, but to hear and grant the request.

Mr. Thayer Inquired of Mr. Ferry whether he had presented his complaint against General Baboock to the Serotary of State or the President?

Mr. Thayer Inquired of Mr. Ferry whether he had presented his complaint against General Baboock to the Serotary of State or the Fresident?

Mr. Trayer method that he had never made any complaint against General Baboock and did not now make any. He said that he facts he had stated in connection with that officer had come to his notice incidentally, while looking into a case of outrage upon the rights of an American citizen. From evidence in his possession he believed overy word of the charges to be true, and he also believed overy word of the charges to be true, and he also believed overy word of the chase to his notice incidentally, while looking into a case of outrage upon the rights of an American citizen. From evidence in Mr Theyer arose to reply, but yielded the floor, upon request by Mr. Howe, to take a vote, as it was nearly 3 o'clock.

During the debate the morning hour expired, but the regular orders were laid aside informally by an overwhelming vice vote vote, in order to dispose of the subject.

Mr. Sumner preferred the reference to a special committee, and suggested to make the number of the committee seven.

The suggestion was accepted by Mr. Forry, when the motion for a special committee of seven to consider the facts set forth in the memorial of Mr. Hatch was adopted without a division.

The Indian Appropriation bill was then proceeded with.

Mr. Burchard moved to amend by inserting an additional amendment requiring national banks to keep in coin, or in Treasury cola certificates, the interest falling due on its bends deposited in the Treasury, until the reserve required to be kept shall consist wholly of coin and coin certificates.

Mr. Coburn thought that this was not the time for any radical change in the currency. All that was asked was an increase of the currency so as to supply a fair distribution of it to those sections of the country that are at present destitute in that respect. The distribution should be on the basis of population. He argued that the first section of the bill did not actually increase the circulation ninety-five millions but only fifty-seven millions; that was owing to a peculiarity in the Baningk law.

He declared that no more radical measure of contraction could possibly be adopted than the pending bill, and therefore it could never obtain his assent. His own proposition was to redistribute fifty millions of the present bank circulation, to allow an additional issue of fifty mill.

tion could possibly be adopted than the pending bill, and therefore it could never obtain his assent. His own proposition was to redistribute fifty millions of the present bank circulation, to allow an additional issue of fifty millions, and to reissue forty four millions of greenbacks in place of the three per cent. certificates now used as the reserve in banks. This would save the Government $1,350,000 a year. He favored the adoption of the first section of the bill without any of the succeeding sections, and then the increase of circulation would be only fifty-seven millions, and the South and West would still have less circulation than before the war,

Mr. Hotchkiss said that the committee had had a critical duty to perform, and he would not find fault with the mode in which that duty was performed. He was opposed, however, to the section for an issue of 4½ per cent. bonds. It had no business in a Currency bill, and was calculated to antagonize it with the Fundin: bill reported from the Committee of Ways and Means. He approved the sections authorizing the establishment of banks to issue specie-paying notes, regarding it as an approach to resumption. He believed that the currency wants of the West could be met without encroaching on the East. The substance of his view was that the country must have free banking untrammelled by restrictions and only made safe. There was no more danger of redundant currency than of redundant merchandise. All these questions were requisted by laws that were beyond the reach of legislation.

Mr. Townsend could not coincide with the chairman of the Banking and Ourrency Committee wregard to the bill. He was particularly opposed to the fifth section, requiring banks to surrender their six per cent. bonds and to take instead of them four and a half per cent. bonds and to take instead of them four and a half per cent. bonds as a basis of circulation. He conceived it to be a matter of bad faith towards those effective and wonderful institutions. The Government owed it to good faith no PERSONAL. DRESIDENT LINCOLN, AT THE OUT-DRESIDENT LINCOLN, AT THE OUTbreak of the War, by proclamation, called for forty-two thousand volunteers to suppress the Rebellion, and the War Department promised that each soldier should have a bounty of $100, when discharged.

THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES HAS DECIDED THAT THIS PROMISED BOUNTY MUST NOW BE PAID. We are prepared to obtain it for every soldier who enlisted before July 25, 1861, for three years, and was subsequently honorably discharged, whether he served for a short or long time.

It is desirable to have the soldier's discharge, but the beunty can be obtained where the discharge is lost or cannot be had. No collection, no charge.

THERE ARE MANY SOLDIERS AND THERE ARE MANY SOLDIERS AND Sailors, their orphans and widows, and their heirs, who have good claims for arrears of pay, bounty, prize money, commutation of travel or commutation of ra ions, which ought to be paid them.

In many such cases applications have been made, but remain unsettled for want of proof or from neglect, and frequently from incompetency of the agent who filed the claim. We will give advice to our comrades when written to for it or called upon, free of any charge, gladly.
